Sir,

For abatement of pollution in River Ganga and its tributaries various sewerage projects are under implementation in Namami Gange program. These projects may entail environmental and social impacts. It is necessary to identify and examine the source, impact and mitigation measures during planning, design, construction and operation phases before the implementation of any investment. For this it is necessary to undergo an Environmental & Social Impact Assessment (E&SIA) for each of the proposed investment and to prepare a site specific Environmental and Social Management Plan. This activity is important to both DBOT as well as for HAM projects. It has been observed that these activities are often given less concern which leads to complication during construction, commissioning and O&M period.

For this, State Support Unit Pro-act has been appointed particularly for assessing the Environmental and Social impacts of the proposed investment prior to the proposal submission. You are requested to make their report a part of the DPR and prepare a site specific environmental and social management plan should also be prepared based on the findings of E&SIA report.

This is for your information and necessary action please.
